Consent Form for Clinical Photography at Capalaba General Practice

Photographs are often routinely taken by the doctors at this practice who treat skin cancer, by the practice melanographer or by other staff under supervision, to form a part of your medical record. This may include photos of moles, other skin or medical conditions or surgical procedures. Photographs from medical records may be very helpful for other medical purposes, so we seek your consent to possibly use the photographs in your medical record for the following purposes.

- Getting an opinion from other expert doctors (at no cost to you).
- Educating other health professionals and medical students (Professor Rosendahl is a Professor at the University of Queensland), other patients and in presentations to community groups. This includes use on medical web-sites, posters and brochures.
- Medical research and publication. Professor Rosendahl is involved in research to improve the diagnosis and treatment of skin cancers and publishes the results of this research in medical journals, text books and educational posters. This research may include sending images to doctors who are researchers in international locations, most commonly at the Medical University of Vienna, Austria.
